Its measured, step-by-step approach builds both skills and confidence. The right mix of language work and plentiful practice material enables learners to consolidate their knowledge of key points before proceeding further. The clearly defined grammatical syllabus includes past, present and future time and provides a thorough basis on which to build. The presentation of new language is gradual, methodical and clearly structured, giving learners a clear sense of progression. The vocabulary syllabus focuses on high-frequency survival terms and avoids overload. The gradual introduction of simple skills work with manageable communicative activities give learners a sense of achievement. 'Everyday English' practises social expressions in common situations and shows how learners can apply their knowledge in practical ways.

New Headway iTools makes it easy to use interactive whiteboards and digital technology with Headway. Everything about these resources is user-friendly and supportive - and here's why. First, you don't need any special equipment. Just use what you already have in the school - an interactive whiteboard, a computer, a data projector, an ebeam. New Headway iTools works on all of these, and it doesn't matter which brand of whiteboard you have. Second, you get a full-colour Teacher's Guide in the pack. This shows you when and how to use the activities in the lesson, and includes whiteboard tips so you're never without support. The Guide also appears on the disc, for easy access during the lesson. New Headway iTools saves you time, too. How? Pre-selection ... the activities on the disc are pre-selected from the Student's Book. This means you don't need to go through the book deciding which activities are most suitable for the interactive whiteboard - they've already been researched and chosen for that very reason. Just go ahead and use them in class, with confidence.

How The Other Half Learns - Robert Pondiscio 2019-09-10

An inside look at America's most controversial charter schools, and the moral and political questions around public education and school choice. The promise of public education is excellence for all. But that promise has seldom been kept for low-income children of color in America. In How the Other Half Learns, teacher and education journalist Robert Pondiscio focuses on Success Academy, the network of controversial charter schools in New York City founded by Eva Moskowitz, who has created something unprecedented in American education: a way for large numbers of engaged and ambitious low-income families of color to get an education for their children that equals and even exceeds what wealthy families take for granted. Her results are astonishing, her methods unorthodox. Decades of well-intended efforts to improve our schools and close the "achievement gap" have set equity and excellence at war with each other: If you are wealthy, with the means to pay private school tuition or move to an affluent community, you can get your child into an excellent school. But if you are poor and black or brown, you have to settle for "equity" and a lecture-about fairness. About the need to be patient. And about how school choice for you only damages public schools for everyone else. Thousands of parents have chosen Success Academy, and thousands more sit on waiting lists to get in. But Moskowitz herself admits Success Academy "is not for everyone," and this raises uncomfortable questions we'd rather not ask, let alone answer: What if the price of giving a first-rate education to children least likely to receive it means acknowledging that you can't do it for everyone? What if some problems are just too hard for schools alone to solve?
