Great Debates in Family Law - Jonathan Herring

2015-04-17

This textbook is an ambitious and engaging introduction to the more advanced writings on family law, primarily designed to allow students to 'get under the skin' of the topic and begin to build their critical thinking and analysis skills. Each chapter is structured around key questions and debates that provoke deeper thought and, ultimately, a clearer understanding. The aim of the book is therefore not to present a complete overview of theoretical issues in family law, but rather to illustrate the current debates which are currently going on among those working in shaping the area. The text features summaries of the views of notable experts on key topics and each chapter ends with a list of guided further reading.

The Respondent - Greg Ellis 2021-06-22

With The Respondent: Exposing the Cartel of Family Law, Hollywood veteran Greg Ellis delivers a gripping, unvarnished first-person account of family breakdown and the social, political, and legal forces that are fueling this national health emergency. It further exposes and condemns a gender bias that presumes that fathers are less effective caregivers. Family breakdown is the single greatest threat to American society. Every day, more than 4,000 children lose a parent because of our archaic and inhumane family-court system. Every day, ten divorced men commit suicide. And now, one in three children in our country are without their father. The Respondent is Ellis's personal story about a Hollywood dream razed by internal and external forces. Part memoir, part meditation, and part manifesto, it's a timely and heartrending portrait of perhaps the most misunderstood aspect of the American legal system. Through its candor and moral strength, The Respondent offers guidance and hope. As such, it's an indispensable read for not only parents enduring the grief of child separation, but all interested in learning about the gross overreach and unrelenting brutality of family law. Family Law and Practice in Hong Kong - Philippa Hewitt 2018

Family Law: A Very Short Introduction - Jonathan Herring 2014-02-27

What is a family? What makes someone a parent? What rights should children have? Family Law: A Very Short Introduction gives the reader an insight not only into what the law is, but why it is the way it is. It examines how laws have had to respond to social changes in family life, from rapidly rising divorce rates to surrogate mothers, and gives insight into family courts which are required to deal with the chaos of family life and often struggle to keep up-to-date with the social and scientific changes which affect it. It also looks to the future: what will families look like in the years ahead? What new dilemmas will the courts face? ABOUT THE SERIES: The Very Short Introductions series from Oxford University Press contains hundreds of titles in almost every subject area. These pocket-sized books are the perfect way to get ahead in a new subject quickly. Our expert authors combine facts, analysis, perspective, new ideas, and enthusiasm to make interesting and challenging topics highly readable.

Valuepack: Family Law/Essentials of Equity and Trusts Law/Law Express: Equity and Trusts 1st Edition/Law Express - Jonathan Herring 2007-11-15

The book is, first and foremost, a book which grabs the reader's attention. The prose is engaging, whilst not diluting academic content. The reader is driven to know more. Gill Chapman, Senior Lecturer, University of Glamorgan, Solicitor and a member of the Gwent Family Justice Committee The text is a very good text book. It is wide ranging, and sufficiently detailed to serve the needs of undergraduate students studying family law. It presents the law clearly, outlines critiques of the law well, and ranges across all of the subject matter I would like to see covered in the course Craig Lind, University of Sussex Jonathan Herring's Family Law, now in its third edition, provides comprehensive coverage of family law relating to both children and adults in one volume. The author analyses the key principles of the current law in a context that is informed by the theories and realities of contemporary society. The result is a clear, highly relevant and high-value course book for students who develop a fascination with this contentious and dynamic area of law. The new edition explores and evaluates some of the dynamic changes to this always controversial subject. The impact of numerous important statutory developments has been explored, including the Civil Partnership Act 2004, the Gender Recognition Act 2004, the Children Act 2004, the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004 and the Children and Adoption Act 2006. There has also been a significant amount of case law development, not least from the European Court of Human Rights, which have been incorporated in the new edition. Case law has been particularly relevant in relation to contact disputes, forced marriages, ancillary relief and child abduction. The book continues to build on its reputation as an interesting and innovative text by including new features to help the reader further explore the subject: * Each chapter includes a table of key statistics and topical issues' sections to show how the law applies in the modern world * Debate sections in each chapter look at a particularly controversial issue and highlight the main arguments on either side, in conjunction with longer analysis in the text itself. * Particularly important cases are highlighted in the text to encourage the reader to reflect on them. * Each chapter includes a summary of the main points covered and the key legislative provisions, providing students with a useful tool for learning and revision. * A list of further reading at the end of each chapter, divided into useful sections, helps the reader to explore the subject further, and a full bibliography is included at the end of the book. About the author Jonathan Herring is a Fellow of Exeter College, Oxford and was formerly a Fellow in Law and Director of Studies at New Hall, Cambridge. He is a qualified (non-practising) solicitor. His research and academic interests also include criminal and medical law.

The Voice of a Child in Family Law Disputes - Patrick Parkinson 2008-12-18

When relationships break down, disputes commonly arise over the parenting arrangements for children, whose living arrangements have to be reorganized at a time of great conflict and turmoil. Most such disputes are resolved without a judicial determination through private agreement, negotiation between lawyers, mediation, or a combination of these methods. This book examines whether and how children should be involved in the process of resolving family law disputes. Although there is widespread acceptance in the Western world that the views of children should be taken into account, and that the weight given to those views should depend on their age and maturity, there is much less agreement about how children's voices should be heard. There are many benefits to giving children a voice in decisions that affect their lives, and the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child identifies this as a right for children. However, there are difficulties and dangers in seeking to hear from children, not least because they may be subject to pressure from each parent to express views that support his or her case. Courts dealing with family law issues are constantly faced with a dilemma. Is it better to keep children out of the conflict, or to give them a say, so that the arrangements are as workable for them as possible? This book integrates examinations of these issues with empirical data from interviews which explore the views and experiences of children, parents, counsellors, mediators, lawyers, and judges involved in such disputes in Australia. Drawing on this research, the authors suggest ways in which children can better be heard without placing them at the centre of their parents' conflicts. They argue that the focus should not just be on how children are heard in legal proceedings, but on how they can be better heard in those families who resolve their conflicts without going to court.
